

HAN RESEARCH LAB

Biannual Update

RECENT PUBLICATIONS

Noriega-Makarskyy, D., Lim, A.C., Upal, S., Weissberger, G.H., Fenton, L., Nguyen A.L., Mosqueda, L., Axelrod, J., Molinare, C., Erdman, C., Williams, J. T., Oyen, E., Kim, P., & Han, S.D. (2025). Financial exploitation vulnerability and social connectedness in middle-aged and older adults without dementia. Aging & Mental Health, 1–5.

<https://doi.org/10.1080/13607863.2025.2475331>.

SPOTLIGHT

Graduate student Laura Fenton was awarded the INS Graduate Student Research Award, a distinction that recognizes the best research presented at the International Neuropsychological Society Annual Meeting by a graduate student! This is a singular high honor, and we are so proud!

Graduate student Laura Fenton defended her Doctoral Dissertation, Daisy Noriega-Makarskyy defended her Master's Thesis, and Cassidy Molinare presented her First Year Proposal!

POSTER REPRESENTATIONS

Oyen, E., Erdman, C., Kim, P., Williams, J. T., Noriega-Makarskyy, D., Fenton, L., & Han, S. D. (2025). Associations Between Perceived Stress and Temporal Discounting in Cognitively Unimpaired Older Adults. 2025 International Neuropsychological Society Conference. New Orleans, LA, United States.

Molinare, C., Noriega, D., Fenton, L., Axelrod, J., Erdman, C., Williams, J. T., Oyen, E., Kim, P., & Han, S.D. (February 2025). Fluid cognitive abilities are associated with monetary savings in cognitively unimpaired older adults. 2025 International Neuropsychological Society Conference. New Orleans, LA, United States.

